

BAY-HARBOR OSTEOPATHIC HOSPITAL, as it appears in architects rendering, is to go up on a six-acre site on Lomita blvd. The $1,100,000 cost of the hospital is being sought from area residents.

Select Site for Bay-Harbor Hospital

Selection of a six-acre site on Lomita blvd. just east of Western ave for the $1,100,000 Bay-Harbor Osteopathic Hospital was disclosed today by Glenn Wymore, president of the sponsoring non-profit organization. Wymore said directors of the group are expected tonight at a regular meeting to ratify the site which already carries the approval of the staff of more than 40 osteopathic physicians and surgeons and of the board's site selection committee. The six acres, on a knoll on the north side of Lomita blvd. at President ave, amply fulfills, he said, the requirements for adequate parking, expansion possibilities beyond the initial 50-bed capacity, and plans which call for this to be the first hospital in the area with rooftop heliport for helicopter ambulance service. Actual purchase of the acreage is subject to approval of the State Department of Health and the Hill-Burton fund committee which has allocated a $600,000 grant to help build the hospital. NEED $300,000

The site selection should serve as a spur to the public fund drive, said Dr. George Wall, fund committee chairman. At least $300,000 must be raised by December 9 to qualify for the $600,000 in Hill-Burton state and federal funds, Dr. Wall explained, and additional money must be raised for purchasing the site and furnishing the hospital.

When completed, the hospital will employ 125 with a monthly payroll of $50,000. The osteopathic doctors in the Lomita-Harbor City, San Pedro, South Bay, Torrance and Gardena area already have pledged heavy financial support to the building drive. Support of the Bay-Harbor Osteopathic Hospital drive will be given by churches of the Lomita-Harbor City area also. Tartars Dump Inglewood In 7-6 Surprise Upset

By Dick Rice
Torrance's underdog, and as yet undefeated Tartars came through with their second upset victory in as many weeks Friday night, this time over the Sentinals of Inglewood. When Sentinals could never quite break. The Sentinal's touchdown came late in the third quarter after they had taken possession of the ball on the Torrance 44-yard line following a punt. Largely by passes to left end Olson and halfback Harold Sake they moved the ball over the goal line in 12 plays. Quarterback Courtney made the final plunge for the score from the two-yard line with 56 seconds remaining in the third quarter. The extra point attempt was wide, and the Tartars still clung to their narrow lead.

NORTH HIGH LOSES TO EL SEGUNDO, 34-0

North High school was whipped resoundingly by El Segundo Friday in a lopsided game that ended up with a lop-sided score, 34 to 0. North High gridgers were outweighed by the heavier El Segundo team who pushed over scores at will.

Torrance eked out a 7 to 0 win over favored Mira Costa a week ago, most local sportswriters thought that it was merely a flash in the pan for the Tartars, and nearly all picked Inglewood over Torrance this week. The first score of the game came midway in the second quarter as Butch White of Torrance returned an Inglewood punt 67 yards for a touchdown. Jack Tippin calmly booted the extra point to give the Tartars a seven point lead which the

Mother of 2 City Residents Dies

Services for Mrs. Anna Catherine Boal, 77, the mother of Clarence Boal and Mrs. Margaret Gomoll, both of Torrance, were held Friday in the Hardin and Flanagan Mortuary chapel. Dr. Joseph M. Applegate, pastor of the Crenshaw Christian church, officiated. Interment was in Inglewood Park Cemetery.

Check Heaters, Engineer Warns

The danger of fatal poisoning by carbon monoxide fumes from unvented gas heaters increases as winter approaches, County Engineer John A. Lambie warned this week. Every year, a number of deaths occur in the Los Angeles area due to the use of unvented, obsolete, and unapproved space heating equipment. The danger is particularly grave in the damp winter months, when windows are likely to be closed. Home owners and other residents are urged by the County Engineer to have their heating equipment checked by a service agency or their gas company, and they should discard any unvented, obsolete, and unapproved gas heaters.

'Moonlighting' Is No Bed Of Roses For Anyone

"Moonlighting," a new term to describe the old and common practice of holding down two jobs at one time was deplored this week by employers and unions in much the same way that "moonshining" is condemned by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Economists, sociologists and personnel directors have been concerned about the situation for a long time, under its older, less interesting name—multiple jobholding. Now a nickname has been brought in, possibly in an effort to enlist public disapproval. "The Machinist," weekly newspaper of the International Association of Machinists, condemned the practice roundly. "Moonlighting is making it harder and harder for laid-off union members to find new jobs. Working for less in competition with a fair employer paying union rates is a serious violation of the basic principle on which the union is built." Employers have more direct grounds for objection to moonlighting, at least insofar as they employ a person for his primary, or non-moonlight job. The office or factory worker who has been up half the night driving a taxicab or checking groceries in a supermarket cannot be fully alert and competent at his regular job the next day.

NO LEISURE
Sociologists and economists see the practice as breaking down the trend toward the shorter work week. The main argument for shorter hours of work, that it provides more leisure for recreation and family life, is seriously undercut when the time off work is used up in a second job. They explain the growth of moonlighting partly in terms of installment-plan buying. The family goes over its head in purchasing furniture or a new automobile and must find additional weekly income to meet the regular payments. Inquiry shows that moonlighting often starts as a temporary measure, intended to provide money for some one purchase, but becomes permanent when the family becomes accustomed to the higher income.

Government statisticians have a special interest in moonlighting. At the Bureau of the Census, it was noticed several years ago that something strange was happening to the employment figures. The total, as reported by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor statistics, was rising faster than the Census Bureau's total. The two studies do not include exactly the same categories of workers, but the two totals should have been showing about the same rate of growth. COUNTED TWICE Moonlighting was found to be the main reason for the divergence. The Labor Department counts jobs, whereas the Census counts jobholders. If a man holds two jobs, labor counts him twice, but census counts him only once. The Labor Department gets its figures from employers, through unemployment insur-

among farm workers, but among non-farm work, and salaried workers it has reached 4.9 per cent. Among all married men, the percentage is 7.5. NEW REPORT DUE Census made a new survey last July and electronic machines will finish grinding out the results in two or three months, giving more details than in its last report on moonlighting.

"We want to know whether the multiple jobholder has a wife who works, for one thing," a Census official explained. "That is, does a man now feel he has to have his wife in the labor force or else get an extra job himself?" Another question that may be answered is whether moonlighting increases as the work week shortens. Census investigators hope to learn whether this has been one effect of bringing the 40-hour week down to 37½ or in some cases 35 hours.

To Issue Warranty On Building Material

One of the Southland's major sub-contract and building material groups has launched an all-out campaign to back home builders in their drive to maintain high construction volume and quality standards, it was learned here week from the Southern California Plastering Institute.

"Southland builders have established a reputation for building the finest homes, dollars for dollar, across the entire nation," a statement from the Institute Board of Trustees declared. "In our own instance," the statement continued, "we plan to deliver, through the builder to the home buyer, a warranty that will clearly set forth the identity and uses of the materials he has used." The warranty, unique in construction practices, provides for a signature of the labor union business representative as well as that of the plaster ring contractor, both certifying to the construction and materials.

Traffic deaths

Traffic accidents in California during the first eight months of this year killed 2349 persons, reports the National Automobile club.

fresh-air sweet indoors?

Only Electric Dryers can do it. In an electric dryer, radiant coils warm the air inside. There's no flame, none of the by-products of combustion. It's cleaner and purer than any other way of drying, 32% fluffier than back-yard drying—and electric drying doesn't fade colors.

Electric dryers not only cost less to buy, but less to maintain. Before you tote another load out into the hot sun, see the new electric dryers at your appliance dealer.
